Adding existing project to GitHub using the command line

Oapen Terminal.

Go to your directory where the project is located.

Initialize the local directory as a Git repository.

```
git init
```

Add the files.

```
git add .
```

Commit the files.

```
git commit -m "Firs commit"
```

In github go to Repositories and create a New Repository. Name the Repository, add a description if needed and Create respository

Copy the lines from ...or push an existing repository from the command line

Push the changes in your local repository to GitHub.

```
git push origin master
```